The Company may employ gearing (borrowings) from time to time with the aim of enhancing returns. The currency exposure of the portfolio is maintained in line with the benchmark, foreign exchange forward contracts are used for hedging* purposes only. What are the risks and what could I get in return?

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets.

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for five years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you sell your shares at an early stage and you may get back less than you invested. You may not be able to sell your shares easily or you may have to sell at a price that significantly impacts on how much you get back. You will incur costs in buying and selling your shares.

We have classified this product as 5, which is a medium high risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium high level. In periods when market conditions are poor, the value of your investment may fall and may impact the amount you get back in the long term.

In addition to market risk, this product also carries restricted diversification risk; interest rate risk; funding risk; credit risk and foreign currency risk. The value of your investment can go down as well as up. You may lose some or all of your investment. This product does not provide any protection from future market conditions and regulatory changes. There can be no assurances that the objective of the Company will be achieved or that dividend distributions will continue to be made. The use of gearing can enhance returns to investors in a rising market, but if the market falls the losses may be greater.

Investment performance information

The main factors likely to affect future returns are the UK and European economic outlook which will be a key driver for corporate earnings and interest rates which will influence stock valuations. Aside from these and other macro-drivers, stock selection will be the main driver of returns. Asset allocation between sectors will also contribute to the future returns, with currency rates versus sterling also relevant for the eventual return. Gearing will also make a difference given the Company's policy to use this strategically.

An appropriate comparator benchmark for reviewing performance is the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Europe NR GBP Index. However, given the broad universe of stocks, the Trust's portfolio is likely to be materially different to the Benchmark's composition, so performance against this may potentially diverge significantly over individual time periods.

What could affect my return positively?

The conditions that would be conducive to the investment trust generating positive returns would be a positive outlook for the UK and European economies driving tenant demand and rents, lower interest rates and political stability. Good stock selection and asset allocation, as well as the impact of gearing can also impact returns positively.

What could affect my return negatively?

The conditions that would be conducive to the investment trust generating lower returns or losses would be a deterioration in the outlook for the UK and European economies leading to low tenant demand and pressure on rents, higher interest rates and negative geopolitical events. Poor stock selection and asset allocation, as well as the impact of gearing can also impact returns negatively.

If the investment trust is sold under severely adverse market conditions, you may increase the risk of receiving back significantly less than you invested.

What happens if the Company is unable to pay out?
